West. Electric Strike Begins

By Associated Press

A strike affecting 17,400 Western Electric Co. employes in New York city and New Jersey began today, bringing a threat of a shutdown in national telephone service.

Joseph A. Beirne, president of the Independent National Federation of Telephone Workers, said members of the 48 unions in the federation had been asked to authorize a national sympathy strike. He said a work stoppage by the union's claimed membership of 260,000 paying members would affect some 450,000 Bell System employes.

The Western Electric strike and threat of a sympathy walkout was the latest of several fast-breaking developments on the labor front in the last few days which threatened to boost the number of idle to more than a million and a half in the next few weeks.

In Stamford, CWt., negotiators who sought to end the nine weeks' strike at the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Co. played a secondary role to a mass meeting which thronged Atlantic sq., the city's principal downtown business area and noisily adopted a resolution calling upon Labor Secretary Schwellenbach to see that fair play prevailed.

A crowd estimated at 10,000 disrupted traffic and its clamor and brass bands all but drowned out the voices—themselves by no means dulcet—or negotiators in adjacent near-by Town Hall.

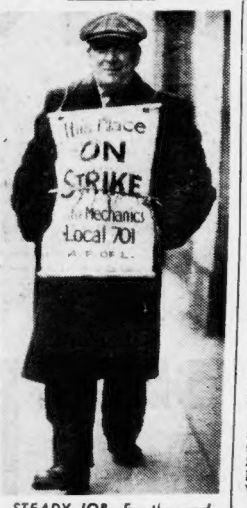
The work stoppage demonstration was called by the Stamford Combined Labor Organizations, representative of both AFL unions and CIO. The strikers are AFL.

The Western Electric strike affected 21 plants in New York city and northern New Jersey. Henry Mayer, counsel for the Western Electric Employes Ass'n, one of six unions operating in plants of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. subsidiary, said employes in the company's plants on the West Coast, Hawthorne, Ill., Baltimore and Haverhill, Mass., were not affected. They are represented by the other five unions, he said, but added he would seek their support.

The Western Electric Employes Ass'n seeks a 30 per cent wage rate boost. The company said it would grant 15 per cent.

Wages were the chief issue in each of the disputes between unions and steel, packing, electrical and telephone industries. Steel and packing strikes already have been set by CIO union leaders—for Jan. 14 by some 700,000 steel workers, and for Jan. 16 in 147 meat paeking plants employing 200,000.

The starting time of a country-wide strike by 200,000 electrical workers employed in plants of the General Electrical Co., General Motors Corp. and Westinghouse Electric Co., probably will be decided by officials of the CIO United Electrical Workers at a meeting in New York Saturday



STEADY JOB—For three-and-a-half years, Alex Orr, 47, has picketed the Michigan Avenue Auto Sales Agency in Chicago. Local 701 of the Auto Mechanics' Union (AFL) established the picket line in 1939 because the agency refused to grant a closed shop. He is the third picket to hold the job.

Government conciliators and other officials in Washington acted to halt the impending work stoppages.

After the Packinghouse Workers Union announced its strike, Agriculture Sec. Anderson said the proposed walkout would not only disrupt meat distribution but would upset farm livestock marketing schedules at a time when livestock feed supplies are tight.

DETROIT, Jan. 3 (AP)—An augmented CIO United Automobile workers picket line today barred the gates of General Motors' Detroit transmission division preventing several hundred office and other salaried workers from entering.

Police said there was no violence.

A union spokesman said the picket action today was taken because office workers yesterday "violated a agreement to properly identify themselves" at the plant entrances.

Labor Strife

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (AP)—J. R. Mandelbaum, U. S. conciliation commissioner, said today he had been informed by William Allen, president of the Commercial Telegraphers Union (AFL) that there was "a very good chance" the proposed strike of 50,000 Western Union telegraph operators outside New York city, scheduled for next Monday, would be called off.

MEAT—Jan. 16 set by CIO United Packinghouse Workers for strike by 200,000 in 147 of country's plants in support of demand for 25 cents an hour wage increase; walkout must be averted, says Secretary of Agriculture Anderson.

COMMUNICATIONS—Strike affecting 17,400 Western Electric Co. employes in 21 New York city and northern New Jersey plants begins; walkout over wage dispute may bring sympathy strike by 260,000 telephone workers throughout nation.

ELECTRICAL — CIO United Electrical Workers Union plans to set strike date Saturday for 200,000 workers in General Electric, General Motors and Westinghouse Electric.

TRANSPORTATION — Two months-old strike of 4000 AFL employes of Greyhound Bus lines operating in 18 Eastern and Midwest states ends.

STEEL—No indication scheduled strike Jan. 14 of 700,000 CIO steel workers will be averted.

AUTOMOBILES—Officials of General Motors and CIO United Auto Workers deny rumors 44-day strike affecting 175,000 workers settled with 15.5 per cent wage boost; negotiations on union's demand resume Monday.

Hub Hungry If Packers Strike

Boston and all New England will be hit by a meat famine that will make previous wartime shortages seem insignificant if the nation-wide packinghouse workers strike on schedule Jan. 16.

This was stated by leaders in the local industry, who declared that ever since the war began this area has been "at the end of the meat line." Supplies have been on a weekly basis and no cold storage reserves ever could be built up.

At the same time, local union leaders announced that nearly 3000 meat workers, who in 1945 earned almost $6,000,000, will be affected immediately if the strike is called. Several thousand more will be affected in allied industries.

Industry spokesmen at Chicago, said the strike would bring curtailment of 700,000,000 pounds of meat weekly and that a reserve of 400,000,000 pounds in cold storage would be exhausted within five days.

Thus Boston, "at the end of the line" and without cold storage reserves, would be hardest hit of any big city.

A CIO union spokesman said 25 wholesale meat packing firms in Massachusetts would be shutdown. The Boston area has 15 of these plants and 10 others are scattered throughout the state. Local unions at most of these plants already have voted to walk out if the strike order becomes effective.

Also forced to shut down would be 60 Bay State firms that make frankfurters, sausages, meat loaf and other allied products from fresh meat.

Other workers who would soon be affected, in addition to the 3000 packinghouse workers here, include handlers, truck drivers, jobbers and wholesalers. Truck drivers are members of the AFL, but would not be expected to cross picket lines.

5 More Boats In Fish Tieup

Spreading the fishing boat tieup which has cut arrivals in Boston to a mere trickle, owners of five large draggers today ordered their craft tied up at Fish Pier in sympathy with the trawler fleet, idle nearly a week—in a dispute over wages.

This action was taken following a conference of the owners' organization, Federated Fishing Boats of New England and New York. Five other dragger owners indicated they would join in a sympathy tie-up with the 31 beam trawlers.

Should the latter group join the work stoppage, only six large draggers would be operating out of this port.

The owners refused a demand by the union for a 60-40 share of profits on all new trawlers. The present split is 50-50.

Windfall Rejected

ROCKFORD, Ill., Jan. 3 (AP)—Gene Archer, 69, reached into his pocket for his auto keys and pulled out a billfold containing $411 he didn't own. He also didn't know how the purse got into his pocket.

He gave the cash to police who decided the owner might have been standing next to Archer in a crowded market and put his billfold into Archer's pocket instead of his own.

They later learned the identity of the owner.

Truman Air Talk Tonight To Deal With Labor Crisis

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (INS)—President Truman will discuss the entire crucial labor situation in his half-hour radio talk beginning at 10 tonight.

The chief executive will appeal to the American people for support of his legislative program, now bogged down in Congress.

It was made plain at the White House, however, that the labor situation and the President's recommendation to Congress of the setting up of fact-finding boards to investigate industrial disputes during a 30-day cooling off period, is onnly one of the important subjects to be dealt with tonight.

Mr. Truman spent most of the day putting last-minute touches on his talk.

He had only two callers today, Col. Arthur A. Kimball, on the staff of Justice Robert H. Jackson, in charge of U. S. prosecution of Nazi war criminals at the Nurenberg trials, and Joseph F. McGurk, U. S. envoy to the Dominican Republic.

Dog Track Men Weigh New Sites

Their plans to build a dog track in Readville abandoned in the face of a thumbs-down opposition from Catholic, Jewish and Protestant churchmen, members of the newly incorporated Readville Sports Arena today turned to South Boston, Brighton and Natick for substitute sites.

Concurrently, Philip Austin Fish, chairman of the city council's executive committee, announced:

"If Boston can provide any locality which could in no way jeopardize the home owner's financial and social security, that and that locality alone is the one to consider."

Gov. Tobin, whose name had been brought into the controversy, was asked today if he had any comment to make. He answered, "I shall definitely have something to say about it but not today."

His close friends, who professed to have an idea of what the Governor had in mind, predicted it would be of sensational nature when he voiced it.

The Readville Sports Arena group announced it would petition the city council to withdraw the application for a Readville track permit today. The hearing, scheduled for tomorrow, has been called off, according to Councilman Fish.

In the meantime it was learned the corporation is considering a site in South Boston near Camp McKay, abandoned embarkation center, not far from the Columbia station.

Another prospect is an area paralleling the Charles River embankment in Brighton, near the Boston & Albany yards.

A third is off the Worcester turnpike in Natick, near the old waterworks.

Benedict Fitzgerald, clerk of the corporation which planned the track at Readville, emphasized today that he and his associates intend to obtain another site. He said:

"We have received many letters calling our attention to areas which would be suitable for a dog track. We are going to inspect some of these. The first move will be to take aerial photographs of the sites."

Film Stars Save Gems In Hot Spot Holdup

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 3 (AP)—A double-barreled inquiry was ordered today into the $40,000-plus New Year's Eve robbery of a gambling palace on swank Sunset Strip.

Undersheriff A. C. Jewell, searching for the half-dozen suave, efficient gunmen, one of whom nonchalantly called "Happy New Year" as they departed, made no secret of his displeasure at a two-day delay in reporting the affair.

"I was so excited," exclaimed Actress Betty Grable, "I just don't know what happened. It was all over quickly." She was there with her husband, Trumpeter Harry James.

Jewell said other film notables were present, but the bejeweled guests and their escorts were not robbed, although one woman was kicked in the shin when she failed to obey an order to line up.

Witnesses said the masked sextet operated with dispatch. Four of them, one with a machine gun, the others with sawed-off shotguns or .45 caliber revolvers, covered the players while two looted the cashier's cage and safe.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3 (AP)—John H. "The contract, originating in 1937," Kraft said, "provided for Bing's radio services during the year, with options to Kraft to renew the contract each year into 1950. We have exercised these options to date, and have notified Bing of our exercise of the option for 1946.

"Bing claims that there is no longer any agreement enforceable against him."

Former N. E. Man, 4 Children Shot to Death

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 3 (AP)—A man about 50 years old and four children were found shot to death today in their second-floor, five-room apartment.

Police said the man was tentatively identified as Emil Schuetz, believed to have formerly lived "somewhere in New England."

Unopened mail delivered New Year's Eve indicated the five died some time Tuesday, police said.

Schuetz was found in a chair near a Christmas tree, shot in the head and a rifle near-by.

In one bedroom was the body of a year-old boy. In another were the bodies of a boy about 9 and a girl, 10, both shot in the head. The body of a 12-year-old boy was in a third bedroom.

Sea Cooks' Holiday

2 Borrow Closed Diner, Land in Jail

Sometimes cooks spoil the broth and they have been known to get into difficulties, too, with eggs and ham and bacon—especially when they get fouled up in the wrong galley.

That's just how it worked out today when two youthful cooks—one Navy and the other Merchant Marine—decided they wanted a snack at the Hayes-Bickford diner in Bowdoin sq.

True, the diner had been closed for more than an hour but the sliding door was ajar and nobody was using the stove. So in they went.

In no time at all, sizzling eggs, broiling bacon and frying ham were on the fire.

Police were the first to be enticed by the aroma. And here is what they found:

A 25-year-old Lowell man, a Merchant Marine chief cook, was bossing the chore, all decked out in a chef's hat and coat. Acting as second cook, and similarly outfitted, was a 22-year-old St. Albans, Vt., youth, USN.

Hungry police gazed longingly for a while, but then shut off the gas and invited the boys to headquarters.

At the lineup a couple of hours later the seafaring cooks gave a quite understandable explanation.

"We just felt like cooking and eating," said St. Albans. "We were coming back in the morning and pay for everything we ate. The prices were on the wall and we were going to figure it out to the dime—with no charge for the cooking."

Said Lowell: "Mailmen go for a walk sometimes on their day off and we were on a night off. We're cooks, so naturally we had to end up the evening over a hot stove. It's a lot more sensible than going for a row down the harbor."

Police were sympathetic, but Municipal Court Judge Keniston meted suspended three-month sentences to the cook, John A. Gosson, and the assistant, Oscar Plunley. The charge was breaking and entering in the night time with intent to commit a misdemeanor.

Tobin Defends Highway Plan

The row over Gov. Tobin's proposal to shift control of construction of a proposed $50,000,000 arterial highway around Boston from Public Works Department to the Metropolitan District Commission flared into the open today with opponents claiming he would be unable to obtain federal aid for the project.

Tobin immediately countered that the federal government would contribute one-half the cost, regardless of what state agency controlled the construction, on the ground federal officials were anxious to solve the problem of eliminating traffic bottlenecks in urban centers.

Opponents, on the other hand, charged the move would cost the city of Boston $25,000,000 since the MDC was not eligible to receive such federal aid while the Public Works Department was.

The federal law requires the state highway authority to handle such projects to which it allocates funds and in this State such authority is the Public Works Department.

During the war, according to a federal official, the MDC was permitted to construct a short highway to a war plant, but in this case, because of the emergency nature of the project, the Public Works Department waived its rights.

Tobin still insisted today, however, that there would be no impediment in obtaining the federal aid for construction of the highway by the MDC.

"For the past five years," he said, "the director of federal roads has been pointing out that the worst traffic bottlenecks are in urban centers.

"This was recognized by Congress and there was a definite allocation of $200,000,000 to take care of these bottlenecks in urban centers. I am positive and certain the federal government will co-operate in any plan to eliminate such traffic congestion.

"The disburing of funds may be made in such federal grants by the Public Works Department but it does not necessary have to do the work."

Opponents, however, asserted that, even if the project was described as an emergency, it was doubtful if the government would wish to entrust construction of such magnitude to the MDC.

Meanwhile, Republicans prepared today to lead another fight against Tobin's proposal to take construction work at Logan airport from the Public Works Department and place it under a new Airport Authority.

The legislative recess committee on aviation has a recommendation ready for introduction to the Legislature, placing operation and maintenance of the airport under the State Aeronau..cs Commission, a Republican-controlled body, and leaving construction work there under control of the Public Works Department, headed by Com. Herman A. MacDonald, a Republican.

30,837 Troops Landed in N. Y.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (AP)—The British liner Queen Mary, bearing 8800 veterans of the renowned 82d Airborne Division, arrived today at the head of a spectacular parade of troopships, bringing home the greatest number of servicemen of any day since V-J Day.

The Queen Mary was the flagship of 11 transports, carrying a total of 30,837 troops, scheduled to dock here during the day. The number of servicemen was exceeded only once for World War II—on July 20, when 31,455 arrived.

Today's arrivals would have set a new record had the carrier Wasp, with 5630 Army officers and men, been able to arrive on schedule. The Wasp, held up by storms, will not reach port until Saturday or Sunday.

Fin. Com. Holds Up Payment In Land Damage Awards

The Boston Finance Commission requested both the park commissioner and city auditor today to withhold approval of payment for damages for land taken in the South and North End for park and playground purposes, charging the proposed awards were 25 per cent higher than the assessed value.

Notifying Mayor Kerrigan of its action, the Finance Commission said:

"The commission is well aware that, with your administration coming to an end, you are now under great pressure to grant requests which cannot be considered on their merits because of lack of time.

"The commission also is aware that, at a time like this, it is possible under Boston's system of government for others—not necessarily with your knowledge—to rush through executive acts in which the motive is not in the best interests of the city."

Discussing the South End land takings, the commission pointed out that the ostensible purpose was for widening Malden st. and construction of a parked area at Washington, Malden, Mystic and East Dedham sts.

The commission found, however, that awards in 10 of the 11 parcels were 25 per cent above the assessed valuation, while the other award, for a city-owned parcel, was the same as the assessed value.

In the North End case, the commission said, the proposed park is within two blocks of two other park areas and the proposed awards for land takings are 25 per cent above assessed values.

Haw Haw, British Traitor, Is Hanged

LONDON, Jan. 3 (INS)—William Joyce, the Lord Haw Haw of the Nazi propaganda radio, was hanged in Wandsworth prison today for high treason to the British Crown.

The Brooklyn-born traitor, who claimed American citizenship as his defense, died after refusal of British Home Sec. Chuter Ede to grant a reprieve.

Extra police guarded the prison gates as some 50 persons gathered an hour before the trap was sprung at 9 a. m. Newsreel cameramen photographed the crowd from automobiles.

Three men and a woman apparently were the only ones in the crowd who professed sympathy for the 39-year-old traitor, who fled England at the outbreak of the war to broadcast his sometimes amusing, always sarcastic comments from the safety of a German haven.

2 Hubbies Hear Her Deny Bigamy

SPRINGFIELD, Jan. 3—While the two men she married looked on, Mrs. Rose Laskowski Falbo, 32-year-old brunette waitress, pleaded not guilty of bigamy today in district court and was held in $300 bail for hearing Feb. 5.

Judge William J. Granfield continued the case because Husband No. 1, Joseph Laskowski of Providence, has a divorce petition against her, scheduled to be heard Monday.

The waitress was arrested late yesterday when she returned from a honeymoon with No. 2, M-Sgt. Vincent Falbo, whom she married in St. Michael's Cathedral Dec. 26. They held a wedding reception for 100 guests at the French Club.

Falbo told the court he was still in love with his bride and would go through any necessary proceedings to clarify their marital status.

Hub GI, 15, Sent Back Home by Air From Tokyo

A 15-year-old Charlestown boy, Arthur W. Walsh, who served 11 months in the Army before his extreme youth was detected, arrived at Logan International Airport today after a 12,000-mile flight from Japan.

"I don't know how they found out but when they did I was ordered back home for minority discharge right away," Walsh said.

"If I had my way, I'd have stayed in. Everything was swell. I was doing guard duty at Osaka when they caught up with me."

His mother, Mrs. William F. Walsh, and his sister, Mrs. Joseph Logan, both of Maine st., Charlestown, greeted the youthful soldier at the airport. He will go to Ft. Devens for formal discharge.

His mother said he fooled the Charlestown draft board by giving his age as 18 and was taken into the service last February. Following training in continental bases, he was shipped overseas where his real age was detected.

Arthur was a ninth grade pupil at Clarence R. Edwards Junior High School when he joined the Army. He has two brothers in the service, one in China and the other in Italy.

Scores of Vets Seek City's 172 Taxi Permits

Scores of persons, most of them veterans, today sought taxicab medallions at police headquarters following announcement that the State Public Utilities Department had granted Boston an increase of 172 licenses.

Capt. Francis McNabb, head of the hack division, said no decisios would be made on applications until official notice of the increase was received from the State.

Priority will be given to veterans who gave up medallions to enter the armed forces, McNabb said. He warned that every applicant will be investigated to determine if he is sincere in his intentions of using the medallions himself.

"We want to be certain that nobody gets a medallion with the sole idea of peddling it later at a profit without ever using it himself," McNabb said.

The price of the medallion is $5. The asking price soared to $42000 during the war, according to Police Com. Thomas F. Sullivan.

The new grant will bring the total of taxicab licneses up to 1525.

GI's 2-Headed Baby Girl Doomed to Early Death

BIRMONGHAM, Eng., Jan. 3 (AP)—Birmingham's two-headed baby girl, born New Year's Day to an American soldier's bride, clung stubbornly to life tonight. Physicians believed the child could survive only a few days more. Dr. Lindsay Park, gynecologist and obstetric surgeon attending the baby, said:

"The disposition of the internal organs is such that survival is very improbable for more than a few days."

The 21-year-old mother said the soldier-father was PFC Joe Govro, of De Soto, Mo.

She said he had been notified today by cable of the birth.

He was sent home last July and his wife has been waiting, like thousands of other American soldiers' brides in Britain, for passage to join him.

It was indicated the mother had been told at least partly about the unusual nature of the child—her first—which until now she had believed to be twins.

Dr. Park said X-rays showed the child has two stomachs. It has the normal two legs and two arms.

He disclosed that her weak hold on life has been maintained by constant administration of oxygen fed on both sides.

"She likes her brandy," he said, disclosing that a few drops of spirits have been given through each mouth every four hours, standard procedure for premature babies.

Dr. Park said the child, born four weeks prematurely, was delivered by a midwife at the mother's home and then was taken to the hospital.

Recovering normally, the mother was described as "quite fit."

Nurses at Selly Oak Hospital said the young mother's parents had notified the father about the child but did not know what they had told him.

The child, care in medical history, ate and cried normally with both its perfectly formed heads. In a ward with other premature babies, she was fed every three hours.

The doctor in charge said the strange birth was caused by imperfect division of a single ovum.

Such accidents occasionally result in Siamese twins.

"This child cannot be described as a Siamese twin," he said. "It has two heads and two necks joined at a point on thes houlder, it has a single trunk.

"It obviously has two sets of lungs, because you can see the two heads breathingin dependently and they have a different pulse rate.

"The two heads also cry and feed at different times. One of them is bigger and more chirpy than the other, which is feeble, but otherwise they are almost identical."

Revere Boy Guilty In Brutal Holdup

A 14-year-old Revere youth with big fists and homemade "brass knuckles" to fit them was on his way to Lyman School today, and a companion, Ronald Rogers, 19, of Lakeview, S. C. and the Navy, was held in $5000 bail for the grand jury after pleading not guilty in municipal court to robbery.

They were arrested—and a third youth is sought—as the result of a brutal attack on an unidentified man in Summer st. at 2:30 a. m., Dec. 28.

The victim was left unconscious and bleeding in a doorway. His assailants took his money, stripped him of his overcoat, shoes and hat, leaving him sprawled in the cold and a heavily-falling snow.

The 14-year-old boy did the slugging. The tools of his trade, exhibited in court, were a pair of heavy soup spoons which he had bent until they fitted tightly over his knuckles.

Special Officer Edward W. Crickard told the story to Judge Davis B. Keniston, based on a confession by the boy, whose case was handled in juvenile court.

Crickard quoted the boy as saying he and his two companions conspired at South Station to "rob the first man who comes along." An unknowing wayfarer came out of the station and walked up Summer st. The three waylaid him.

Then, said Crickard, they took his shoes, hat and coat to an all-night restaurant, trying to sell them. Finding no takers, they left the hat and coat, but took away the shoes.

Two hours later an apparition-like figure tottered into the restaurant, asking for help.

The manager showed him the abandoned hat and coat. They were his. He donned them, then stumbled out in the storm again, still shoeless and dazed. He never reported the attack to police.

The story was revealed when, several days ago, police picked up the Revere boy on suspicion. He talked freely, they said. On the basis of his information they went to the Chelsea Naval Hospital and arrested Rogers, awaiting discharge there after 17 months overseas.

Tobin Sends 1945 S-1 Plate to Boy

The home-made coaster of 12-year-old Paul Cleary of 19 Agate st., Worcester, this year will carry the "S-1" automobile registration plate used last year by Gov. Tobin. The boy wrote, asking for the plate, and Gov. Tobin said today it would be sent to him.

Brookline Fire Routs Score

Flames roared through a four-story block at Davis ave. and Washington st., Brookline, today, driving out more than a score of occupants. Two alarms were sounded.

Starting on the ground floor, the fire raged through two stores and surged upward through small apartments on the three floors above.

Occupants fled to safety and there was not immediate report of injuries.

City Hospital Cuts Service

Boston City Hospital today announced all but emergency operations were being surtailed because of the shortage of personnel and the increased number of persons with respiratory infections seeking admission.

Dr. James A. Manary, superintendent, also requested all persons with only minor injuries or slight bruises consult their own doctors rather than come to the hospital for treatment.

Tobin Gets Plans For New Prison

Architect drawings of the $2,500,000 state prison proposed by State Correction Com. Paul J. Doyle were submitted to Gov. Tobin today.

Doyle said the new prison at Bridgewater to replace the dilapidated Charlestown institution would be "one of the finest in the nation." He said work would start as soon as the legislature gave approval.

Plans call for construction of six buildings, including two main cellblocks to house 840. An 18-foot wall would enclose the 30-acre tract, with the prison power plant outside.

Byrnes Has Cold, But Will Go to London

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes stayed away from work today because of a cold.

A State Department spokesman said, however, he did not believe Byrnes' illness was serious enough to delay his departure for London to head the American delegation to the United Nations' Assembly meeting, Jan. 10.

The three Landbides children, John, 6; Mary, 2, and Dickey, 1, are shown with Chicago policeman and woman before they were taken from their home after their mother was shot and killed. Their father, John, admitted the fatal shooting, which took place, he said, during an argument over an alleged date she had with another man.

Tobin to Call Early Meeting On El Airport Bus Rejection

The State Public Utilities Commission's rejection of the Boston El petition to provide airport bus service will be discussed at a conference to be held "as soon as possible," Gov. Tobin announced today.

He said the conferees would include officials of airlines, the Chamber of Commerce, the El, Sutcliffe Storage & Warehouse Co., and the utilities group.

"The whole problem of mass transportation will be discussed at that meeting," the Governor said.

He said he had completed a study of the evidence submitted to the commission and the decision which left the Sutcliffe firm with a monopoly on airport transportation. He made no comment on the decision.

The El sought to run de luxe bus service to and from the airport for a fare of 25 cents. The Sutcliffe company, with three limousines, provides service at 75 cents.

U. S. Reds Demand M'Arthur Removal

By HOWARD RUSHMORE

NEW YORK, Jan. 3—The Communist party's smear campaign against Gen. MacArthur reached the Supreme Allied climax today with the outright demand that Washington remove the Supreme Allied Commander from Japan. In an official statement appearing in the Daily Worker, Communist organ, the local Stalinists declared:

"Only by removing this political general can the State Dept. expect to win American confidence that the four-power control council will function in Tokyo as it should."

Left wing sniping at Gen. MacArthur started soon after V-J day, and Red attacks on the Pacific war leader coincided with reports that Moscow also disliked Gen. MacArthur as supreme commander.

Now that Gen. MacArthur's criticism of the Allied control plan adopted last week in Moscow will oppose Russia's interests, the Communists are renewing their drive against him.

Declaring that MacArthur would obstruct the Allied Council in which Russia is a participant, the Daily Worker added:

"MacArthur must go if the United States intends to have this Allied Council accomplish anything."

Chinese Reds O.K. Marshall

CHUNGKING, Jan. 3 (AP)—Chinese Communists accepted today Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's offer to call in Gen. George C. Marshall as a mediator in China's civil strife.

Communist authorities here announced they agreed in general with Chiang's plan to halt hostilities, but they were laying down specific conditions. Their reply was handed to government delegates at a formal peace meeting.

Reports of fighting meanwhile thickened. A Chinese national government dispatch countered Chinese Communist reports of virtually unopposed Kuomintang troop movements in northern China with the assertion that Communist forces were advancing at several points.

All Out Drive on Filipino Bandits

MANILA, Jan. 3 (AP)—Defense Sec. Alfredo Montelibano said today 10,000 sub-machineguns have been issued to 19,000 Filipino Army military police for operations against lawless elements particularly in central Luzon.

"We are going to restore law and order at any cost," said Montelibano.

Besides the submachineguns, the military police have airplanes, modern signal equipment and 24 field hospitals for the cleanup operations.

American High Commissioner Paul V. McNutt said recently that he was looking into the problem.

No Tip-off on Japs' Attack Says Stark

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—Adm. Harold R. Stark said today that so far as he knew, there was no advance information in Washington that the Japanese would attack Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941.

The 1941 chief of naval operations made the statement in concurring with an assertion by Sen. Lucas (D.) of Illinois at a joint congressional hearing that reports of such advance knowledge were "utterly without foundation in fact."

Stark testified before the Senate-House committee investigating the Pearl Harbor disaster that:

1—He knew of no one in any official position who knew in advance the precise hour or place of attack.

2—He knew of no man or group of men who maneuvered the 1941 Japanese situation to invite attack. "On the contrary we were trying to maintain peace," he said.

3—He knew of no one who, as Lucas put it, "trapped or lied" the Japanese into attack "so as to make it easier for Congress to give a declaration of war."

"Then," said Lucas after emphasizing Stark's close connections with President Roosevelt and cabinet members, "all rumors and speculation and newspaper articles about men higa in the government knew the precise time and place of attack are utterly without foundation in fact?"

"That is my opinion," said the white-haired admiral.

Stark also said it never occurred to him to telephone Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, Pacific fleet commander, about fresh information indicating that war was imminent before the Japanese atacked Dec. 7, 1941.

He told the committee he felt relaying to Kimmel intercepted messages instructing Japanese consular officials to burn their codes would only serve to "confuse" the fleet commander.

He added that he also believed dispatch of the intercepted message to Kimmel might have weakened a war alert which Stark sent Kimmel on Nov. 27, 1941.

Getting Seeks Volunteer Nurses

Dr. Vlado A. Getting, state commissioner of health, today appealed for married or retired nurses to come to the rescue of State institutions where one out of every four beds now are vacan because of the nursing shortage.

"Hundreds of cancer and tuberculosis victims in Massachusetts are being deprived of needed hospitalization by the desperate shortage of nurses," he said. "It is an extremely regrettable situation because space is available and still we cannot admit patients."

Institutions hardest hit, where beds are empty and where waiting lists are mounting, were named as the Rutland Sanitarium, Essex County Sanitarium and Middlesex Sanitarium.

U. S. Official Denies Jewish Exodus Plot

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 3 (AP)—Judge Simon Rifkind, advisor on Jewish affairs to Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, U. S. commander in the European theater, today described as "poppycock" reports that a "world-wide Jewish conspiratorial arrangement" was behind the infiltration of Polish Jews into the American zone.

Rifkind, speaking at a press conference, made it clear that he was giving only his personal views on statements made yesterday by Lt. Gen. Sir Frederick E. Morgan, chief of UNRRA operations in Germany, who expressed belief that a secret Jewish organization was sponsoring the infiltration from the east.

Morgan said Jews arriving from Poland "certainly do not look like persecuted people," and added: "I believe they have got a plan, a positive plan, to get out of Europe."

Rifkind said:

"Jews fleeing out of Poland are, or believe they are, fleeing for their lives."

No worldwide Jewish organization, secret or otherwise, he declared, "could bring out women and children, young and old, strong and weak, orthodox and non-religious, well-off and poor, such as I have seen."

"What the fleeing Jews seek," he continued, "is security. They are inspired by one of the great basic needs of mankind, freedom from fear."

Rifkind said the migrants were guided and assisted "not by any secret organization but by remnants of old Jewish organizations" existing in prewar Poland, and that these were giving "the most primitive kind of organizational guidance," including road directions.

Gen. Morgan Denies Statement on Exodus

LONDON, Jan. 3 (INS)—The Evening Star today declared that Lt. Gen. Sir Frederick Morgan, head of the UNRRA in Europe, has denied a statement regarding a mass exodus of Jews from Europe attributed to him yesterday.

The general was quoted as saying that his words were "distorted."

Morgan declared today:

"I was talking about displaced persons in Europe. I mentioned the Jews as part of the problem but I didn't use the words put down.

"You know as well as I how difficult and intricate is the matter of dealing with these people of many races who have been forced out of their countries by war."

A Foreign Office spokesman said the British government was investigating Morgan's statement.

Ohio University Turns Away 5000

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 3 (AP)—More than 5000 education-seekers were turned away by Ohio State University for the winter quarter opening today because of housing, classroom and teacher shortages, school officials reported.

Despite the disappointed thousands, the enrolment probably will reach an all-time high of nearly 14,000, Dr. Ronald B. Thompson, registrar, predicted.

Jewish 'Outlaws' Boast Terrorism

LONDON, Jan. 3 (INS)—A Reuter's Jerusalem dispatch said today the outlaw Jewish military organization, "Irgun Zevi Leumi," had claimed responsibility for last week's terrorist assaults on British headquarters buildings in Palestine.

A military-type "communique" posted conspicuously throughout Jerusalem said the attacks in Jerusalem, Tel Aviv and Jaffa were carried out by "fighters for the freedom of Israel" armed with grenades, mines and machine-guns to prevent police and British troops from reaching the main body attacking criminal investigation division buildings.

Another dispatch said today 900 persons were detained following search of the city's Jaffa road area yesterday.

Vast Air Stocks May Be Scrapped

HONOLULU, Jan. 3 (AP)—More than $100,000,000 worth of surplus and obsolete military aircraft and spare parts soon may be destroyed in the mid-Pacific area by the Army. The obsolete planes and parts have "absolutely no sales value," an Army spokesman told a Senate sub-committee.

Pacific fleet headquarters has announced it destroyed or abandoned $14,400,000 out of $72,000,000 worth of naval air force stock piles in the Pacific which had "no further military or commercial value."

Craft Overseas Sold At One-Fourth Cost

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—Overseas sales of surplus American aircraft and parts brought $1,200,813 in November, about one-fourth the original cost, Foreign Liquidation Commissioner Thomas B. McCabe announced today.

The sales increased to a total of $6,535,511 the receipts from foreign disposals of planes and equipment which cost the government $19,390,959.

Czechs Hunting Fugitive Said to Be Goering's Son

PRAGUE, Jan. 2 (Delayed) (AP)—Czechoslovak security authorities hunted today for a mystery man who escaped from an East-bound prisonor of war transport after it crossed the Polish frontier. The fugitive is tentatively identified as a son of Hermann Goering.

The police radio alerted all posts to search for the man, who got away near Cieszyn (Teschen), 10 miles east of the Czechoslovak border.

(Goering, 52 years old and twice married, has two daughters. He ns not known to have had a son).

The alarm was the latest of a series of similar rumors which have had security officers searching first for a son of Hitler and then for a son of Martin Bormann, Hitler's missing aide. The picture of a boy 11 to 12 was found among Hitler's personal documents. It was later said to be Bormann's son.

Truck Driver Appeals Food Theft Sentence

McNamara and Gerald Griffin, 35, of Salem st., Medford, were charged with theft of butter, bacon, steaks and poultry consigned to Boston hotels. Griffin admitted a finding of guilty and was given a six-months suspended sentence.

Nazis Took Jewish Bribes, Slew Them

By PIERRE J. HUSS

NUERNBERG, Jan. 3 (INS)—An "estimated five million" Jews were slaughtered by the Nazis in co-operation with the German army during German subjugation of Europe.

This and other damaging testimony was told to the War Crimes Tribunal today by Dieter Wisliceny, SS specialist on "Jewish matters" and close friend of the notorious Gestapo Leader Adolph Eichmann, charged with complete extermination of all Jews in Europe.

Wisliceny told a terrifying tale of portable gas chambers and mobile extermination units.

He said the American Jewish Joint Committee paid Eichmann three million pengoes ($250,000) in an effort to avert the slaughter of Hungarian Jews, and added that Eichmann took the money but went ahead with the mass murders.

He charged Eichmann sabotaged negotiation between Heinrich Himmler and the Jewish delegate, Dr. Kastner.

This was not the first indication that members of the Nazi hierarchy were willing to spare their "deadly enemies," the Jews, for a price.

Earlier, the tribunal heard from Otto Ohlendorf, a Gestapo murder specialist, who tied in the Wehrmacht with the mass murders.

Ohlendorf, former Gestapo commander in the southern Ukraine, said that Adolf Hitler and Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler assumed all responsibility for the killings.

Ohlendorf's admission the SS Mobile Units operated under a written agreement with the Wehrmacht implied that the rape of occupied lands was the responsibility of Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel and Col.-Gen. Alfred Jodl as well as Kaltenbrunner.

The swarthy SS man stared defiantly at the 20 defendants who listened suspiciously to see whether this witness, as had others, would attempt to gain favor by denouncing his own gang.

Vatican Protest To Nazis Bared

NUERNBERG, Jan. 3 (AP)—The Vatican protested to the Nazi government in 1943 against the "unfriendly act" of the German foreign office in refusing to deliver to Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop a Holy See letter detailing atrocities against the Catholic Church in Poland, it was disclosed today.

The protest charged the German government was making it impossible for the Holy See to carry out its "Divine mandate" to protect Catholics in occupied countries.

But it received an insulting reply from Von Ribbentrop, who said his foreign office was right in not relaying the message because "letters dealing with impossible situations were a waste of time."

Curley Trial Defendants Lose Plea to Bar U. S. Data

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—A motion to strike documents of Engineers Group, Inc., from the record of the mail frauds trial of five former officers of the company including Mayor-elect Curley of Boston, was overruled in District Court today by Justice James M. Proctor.

T. Emmett McKenzie, attorney for James G. Fuller, one of the defendants, made the motion on the ground that the papers had been obtained by the Justice Department from the Senate's Truman War Investigating Committee.

The ruling was made as defense attorneys began arguments for a directed verdict of acquittal.

McKenzie told the court that he thought, "we are entitled to have a hearing" on the motion. Justice Proctor said "if the records go out of the case, I assume the case would fall."

William A. Gallagher, attorney for Donald Wakefield Smith, another defendant, opened the requests for a directed verdict with an argument that "the evidence by which it is sought to connect Smith with alleged offense is not sufficient."

Smith is a former member of the National Labor Relations Board.

The jury had been excused until Jan. 10, the prosecution having ended its case.

associates are also Navy vets. A large number of the letters recommending sites have come from other veterans, he stated.

City Councilor Fish, in his statement indicating the council would be willing to entertain a permit for a dog track in some area not adversely affected, said:

"Withdrawel of the petition to establish dog racing in the Readville section eliminates any necessity for the public hearing before my committee, which was scheduled for 10 a. m. tomorrow.

"Although legalized horse and dog racing are legitimate businesses and a medium of substantial revenue for cities in which they are located, they should not be allowed to invade a residential section.

"Readville is not the place and I commend its residents and the residents of Hyde Park in the successful, vigorous and determined stand they have made on two occasions to protect their community."

Abandonment of the track proposal came at the climax of one of the most vigorous and determined opposition moves to such an enterprise ever developed in the state.

In explaining their decision officers and directors of the Arena corp., all naval veterans of World War II, said the primary reason for their action was the "unalterable opposition" of Archbishop Cushing.

"We have no intention of entering any business enterprise that is contrary to the wishes of Archbishop Cushing," they stated.

"Had we realized that the proposed dog track site was in close enough proximity to a seminary or convent to cause any concern for the members of these religious institutions we would never have submitted the petition.

"However, we hold the greatest of respect for the views expressed by Archbishop Cushing and will abide by them."

They denounced "powerful Republican interests" for leveling "vehement attacks and abuse" on members of the new sports group, and accused these "interests" of sponsoring the attacks to "protect the monopoly" of the three dog tracks now operating in the state.

In his opposition to the proposed greyhound arena at Readville, Archbishop Cushing had been joined by the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill Episcopal bishop of Massachusetts, and the Rev. Lewis O. Hartman, Methodist bishop and president of the Massachusetts Council of Churches."

Boy's Gun Play Kills Mother

MANVILLE, N. J., Jan. 3 (AP)—A 5-year-old boy "playing soldier" with his father's hunting rifle accidentally shot his mother to death at the supper table last night.

The mother, Mrs. Margaret Lukacs, 25, had remonstrated with her son, and the father got up from his chair to take the rifle away from the child. The gun went off, the bullet severing the mother's jugular vein.

Bigger Bonus Asked for Vets

A bill calling for a graduated scale of bonus payments to all Massachusetts men and women who served one and a half years or more in World War II was filed today in the House.

Sponsors were Reps. Earl G. Crockett (R.) of Upton, Robert F. Murphy (D.) of Malden and Paul A. McCarthy (D.) of Somerville.

The proposed payments would be in addition to the $100 paid all Bay State veterans. It would reward length and type of service by payments of $100 to those serving from one and a half to two years, $150 to those serving over two years in the United States and $200 for any type of foreign service.

Establishment of a $900,000 fund to be used for scholarships for children of veterans killed in action was provided today in a bill filed in the House by Rep. Patrick J. McDonough (D.) of Boston. The money would be raised by advancing from $100 to $5000 the license fee imposed annually on 180 small loan agencies in Massachusetts.

Homma Watched Bataan Death March, Aide Testifies

MANILA, Jan. 3 (AP)—Japanese Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma must have seen orders for the brutal "death march" of Americans and Filipinos from Bataan in 1942, but had "a very thin interest" in his captives, one of his former staff officers testified as Homma's war crimes trial opened today.

The witness, Maj. Gen. Toshimitsu Takatsu, said Homma's headquarters on Bataan were less than 500 yards from the death march route and that Homma traveled 20 miles down the highway while the prisoners were driven mercilessly along it.

Describing the death rate among captives as 300 daily at the O'Donnell prison camp, Takatsu said medicines were "not sufficient," and "I think there was a lack of food, which was mostly rice. Also, there was not much water." He said he reported these conditions to Homma's headquarters but nothing was done.

Refusing to elaborate a written statement, Takatsu said he was "honor bound" not to speak badly of Homma in the latter's presence.

In establishing "widespread raping and brutal mistreatment of American and Filipino women," the prosecution said proof would be offered that such actions, for which they blame Homma, included the "inhuman" treatment of an unnamed, married American woman at the swank Rosario apartments two days after the fall of Manila. As the result, they said, the woman was sent to an asylum as insane.

BRAKES ON PROGRESS

ONE OF THE MAJOR tasks confronting the Socialist regime in Britain and requiring performance before it could hope to begin fulfillment of its promises to the people is the raising of British exports to the level of imports.

Until this is accomplished, as the transatlantic edition of the London Daily Mail comments editorially, there is no possibility whatever for the nation "to get back to anything like a good standard of living."

In the first nine months of 1945, Britain paid out three and one-half billion dollars for imported goods, and received only slightly more than one billion dollars for exported goods.

While the Socialist Government has been in power during only the latter part of this period, the disparity between imports and exports has steadily increased since it came into power.

Remarking that this significant and alarming fact "can hardly be said to reflect any credit on the policy of the Socialist Government," the Daily Mail reaches this conclusion:

"It is another argument for TAKING OFF THE BRAKE imposed on the initiative of manufacturers by SOCIALIST DOCTRINES."

BEFORE THE ELECTION which raised the Socialist Government to power, the pledge of its spokesmen was that "nationalization will ensure that goods are available at decent prices to everybody."

Now that less goods than before are available to the people, whatever the price paid, the same spokesmen are pleading that "nationalization is no magic cure."

What the British people are reaping from Socialism, according to the leader of the minority in Parliament, Mr. Winston Churchill, is the futile and disastrous experience of seeking "strength through misery."

The British people are paying more attention to Mr. Churchill now than they did before the election, when his urgent warnings against the dangers of Socialism went unheeded.

Before the election, the Socialists called the traditional British reliance on exports for prosperity a pursuit of a "will o' the wisp."

Now even the Socialists are admonishing the British people that they "must endure poverty in order to supply the export markets."

The Socialist program of nationalization in Britain has already proved to be exactly what Mr. Churchill predicted it would be—a system of BRAKES ON PROGRESS.

MOST IMPORTANT

IN HIS annual message to the Legislature, Governor Tobin rightly recommended the expenditure of several millions of dollars for public improvements in the Greater Boston area.

The Governor and the people know that the whole State suffers when a period of stagnation afflicts Boston, the capital and largest city.

Whatever is done for Boston affects every city and town in the Commonwealth, directly and indirectly.

No other project is more urgently needed or more obviously beneficial than a 5000-car garage under Boston Common to solve the parking problem which is generally conceded to be the worst in the world.

This garage will save hundreds of important business establishments which are being literally choked to death and will preserve and protect thousands of jobs.

Every Senator and Representative who wants to serve the people in a truly commendable and non-political manner will sponsor and support legislation calling for the immediate construction of the garage and will oppose all attempts to obstruct it.

Airports are necessary and desirable, but let us remember that there are thousands of automobiles for every one airplane and that the owners and operators of the automobiles who pay millions in taxes are entitled to some consideration.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1946, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3—Challenged on a recent assertion in these dispatches that victims of outrage by unions, could sue them for redress, whether the violence were done by slander, breach of contract or organized and directed assault or vandalism, I should like to present the gist of that interesting dissent, then I shall offer another opinion, by a judge, unexpectedly upholding my own belief.

Westbrook Pegler

As a preliminary, let me say that most Americans including, I believe, most lawyers, think that neither an individual nor a corporation has any remedy in such circumstances.

Thousands of victims have endured gratuitous abuse without protest, and the union executives reflect a belief that their unions cannot be held responsible.

My theory that they can be sued and punished has elicited the following discussion by an attorney in Washington:

"Your statement, unfortunately, is not correct, or, to put it more accurately, is correct only to a very limited extent," he writes.

"Whether a union is suable in its own name or as an entity is entirely dependent on the law of the particular State in which the suit is brought. In New York, for instance, unions can be sued in their own names.

"In a majority of the States, however, it is not true. Where it is not true, the only recourse is to sue individual members who may be difficult to identify.

"A suit against individual members who may not be financially able to respond to a judgment is a poor substitute for a suit against the union, itself, which, under modern conditions is ordinarily quite able to respond in damages . . .

"It has seemed to me that if unions are to function as entities and are to make contracts under which they assume definite obligations they ought to be answerable universally in suits filed against them as entities in breaches of contracts."

THE EFFECT of the enforcement of the Wagner Act is that the national government compels employers who are suable for breach of contract or other misconduct to make contracts with unions which cannot be punished for their own violations of those agreements.

I do not know whether the Supreme Court ever has decided whether such contracts entered by the employers only, under government compulsion, are valid.

Obviously they should not be, but the combined effect of opinions written by Felix Frankfurter and by James Byrnes, in the Teamsters' case, has been to confirm the vast powers of unions and to hold them irresponsible and immune.

COMING NOW, however, to a recent decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in a libel suit by the Pullman Standard Car Co. against Local 2928 of the CIO steelworkers, we find all three judges in agreement that the law of Illinois governs the case.

On that basis they found that certain individual defendants who published a statement alleged to be false and harmful to Pullman's reputation could be sued. A decision of the District Court dismissing the suit against them was reversed.

Judges Kerner and Major held, however, that the Illinois law did not permit Pullman to sue the union, itself. They held that even though Congress did endow unions with legal entity, Congress could not and did not intend to deprive a State of the right to determine who can be sued in its courts.

DISSENTING AND contending that the union may be sued, Judge Sparks pointed out that many citizens of Illinois had been compelled to deal with unions as legal entities "much to their sorrow," and that unions make leases and contracts in their official names.

The union, he observed, had been given the right to act in its own name, as an entity, to enforce contracts and had voluntarily accepted that status.

Therefore it must be assumed that Congress intended that the employer could seek relief from the union in court.

I seem to remember that the same contention has been advanced here, several times in the last few years. And for answer I have heard only the paradoxical plea that the giant unions, with hundreds of millions in their treasuries, are so puny that they cannot accept equality in the courts but must have an advantage over a widow running a roadside hamburger stand, or a returned veteran who has been blackballed for criticising some boss-unioneer and would like to sue the union for recognition of his right to work.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 3—It may be quite a spell before "Forever Amber" gets going. No script has been okayed by the Johnston office and also there's a little trouble about the title. Nov I hear that Darryl Zanuck may introduce Peggy Cummins to American fans in a story scheduled ahead of "Amber". It's an English horse racing opus called "The Home Stretch", which Robert Bassler will produce and Sally Benson is coming out from New York to put her special brand of writing charm on the script.

E. Williams

Peggy is anxious to get to work. There's none of the traditional British reserve and aloofness about her. The blonde charmer is here and there and everywhere. I must say she is popular at the Hollywood parties and she makes friends easily. ★ ★ ★

WELL, THEY are going to get Esther Williams all wet again, just as soon as they get her back from throwing the bull in Mexico for "Fiesta." Producer Joe Pasternak has lined up a newie for the shapely Williams, a musical against the background — or should I say surf—of Mackinac Island in the Great Lakes. It's called "This Time for Keeps" and will be one of the super-productions of 1946. Jose Iturbi and Xavier Cugat and his orchestra will be in it, too. It starts shooting sometime in February, but the director hasn't been named. ★ ★ ★

SUSANNA FOSTER, who left Universal and said she would make no more pictures, writes to tell me why she made that decision. She said in part: "I have been in pictures 10 years. M-G-M brought me out here from Minnesota in 1937 when I was 12. I have been under contract to three major companies—M-G-M, Paramount and Universal. It may seem strange, but with all that experience I never felt I was a part of the business. After 10 years of struggling to get some place, I realize that I have always been unhappy because I have never been sure what I was shooting for. Now I know. I want to be a fine musician. Few singers are, because they lack sufficient training. I don't deserve being a movie star—I have never wanted stardom. All I have is some unbridled talent. I want to be a genuine artist, and you can only achieve that with plenty of hard work and study, study, study." Susie says Universal has been very understanding. ★ ★ ★

YEAR IN and year out, Edward Everett Horton carries on as one of the most distinguished character actors. He's in a class by himself. No sooner had I heard the news that Columbia has signed Eddie in "Down to Earth," than I hear he is also going to be in "Faithful in My Fashion" at M-G-M, which Lionel Houser, the writer, is producing. He and Spring Byington will play a pair of floor walkers in a big department store, where this romance happens. Tom Drake and Donna Reed play the young lovers. ★ ★ ★

NOT IN YEARS have I heard of a smarter young actress than Catherine McLeod. Not only did this youngster promote herself into the lead of "I've Always Loved You" at Republic—on which the sneak "rushes" reports are absolute ballads of praise—but now she has sold the story of her own life as the basis of the next picture Frank Borzage will make with her. Titled "Plain Girl," it's the story of a girl who is dominated by an aunt who fights to keep her out of show business. Bill Carter will play the lead opposite Cathy. ★ ★ ★

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Can't say I'm surprised to hear that the beautiful and constant visitor at Ken Murray's bedside since he returned from New York with a bad case of the flu, is his ex, Cleatus Caldwell. I have a feeling there's an excellent chance that these two will kiss and make up. I certainly hope so. They have two lovely children and Ken took their parting hard. By the way, he's very grateful to Rudy Vallee who stepped in and has appeared in Murray's place in the "Blackouts" for every show while he was out with the flu. ★ ★ ★

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: It was really a happy New Year for Gloria De Haven and John Payne. They became the proud parents of a baby girl, Kathleen Hope, born at St. Vincent's Hospital New Year's night; Edmund Lowe, who was disconsolate when Lady Furness left for London, is finding consolation in pretty Mrs. Ann Post, Speed Post's former wife; from Las Vegas I hear that they've named one of the friskiest racing turtles Louella Parsons. Well, if she doesn't do any better than little Louella, the race horse, she'll never hit the winner's circle; S. P. Eagle and Rita Hayworth were together at Ciro's—and speaking of Ciro's they are going all out with a very formal opening, white tie and tails, for the debut of Desi Arnaz' orchestra Friday. Desi's orchestra is composed mostly of ex GIs; Jackie Coogan is going to let his protege, Ronnie Ralph, make an outside movie, "Night Editor," at Columbia; Sylvia Sydney and Don Loper were doing the night spots the other eve - ditto Carlton Alsop and Ruth Brady. ★ ★ ★

WILD BILL ELLIOTT, Republic's cowboy, is taking on dignity and will be known henceforth as William Elliott; Peter Lawford and Evelyn Keyes, that soooo good looking couple, were back together again at Glenn Billingsley's new cafe; and Lana Turner and Bob Hutton have been hiding out in that new cute spot, "The Talk of the Town"; guess the Johnny Weissmuller-Brenda Helser romance isn't as solid as first thought. He's been seeing Jean King quite a bit lately; the housing shortage hit a new high when Bubbles and Arthur Hornblow, cramped in a very small place, had to send Bubbles' baby to stay with Wayne Morris, her ex-husband; Ann Rutherford and David May will celebrate their third wedding anniversary in New York; it's getting more serious all the time between Capt. Glenn Edwards and Joan Leslie; building has already started on the new home for Jane Bryan and Justin Dart in Stone Canyon—but Janie says nothing will induce her to return to the movies. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—Lt. Gen. Leroy Lutes, who has just been appointed commander of the Army Service Forces, succeeding Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, had a concrete illustration the other day of the old military maxim that half the battle is getting in the first punch.

Rep. Woodrum

Fresh from hearing himself described by Secretary of War Patterson as a man of "vision, experience, training and knowhow," Gen. Lutes took a taxi in front of the Pentagon Building and instructed the hackie to drive him to the Carlton Hotel.

Approaching the hotel, it became necessary for the driver to make a lefthand turn, but he was in the righthand lane. However, he solved this by cutting directly in front of a cab in the lefthand lane.

Wroth over this unethical maneuver, the lefthand jockey started to roll down his window to tell the other off. But Gen. Lutes' cabbie proved himself a true military strategist. He rolled down his own window, and, before the other could utter a word, yelled:

"The same to you!"

ON AND OFF, or maybe vice versa, I have heard quite a few touching farewell speeches in Congress. When a Congressman is quitting and knows he does not have to worry any longer about the reactions of the voters he has a tendency to let himself go

The one that seemed the most pregnant with feeling, however, was delivered the other day by Rep. Clifton A. Woodrum of Virginia, who has been a member of the House since 1923.

After saying that he was giving up something that was very dear to him, Mr. Woodrum said he was approaching the thrill of a new adventure, "an adventure in private citizenship, a blessed state which I can hardly remember having experienced, because I have been in public office almost all my life."

In a voice which might have been touched with sadness, except that he looked so darn pleased, he continued:

"An English philosopher once said that there are two supreme pleasures in life. One is ideal, one is real. The ideal, he said, is when a man receives the seals of office from his sovereign. The real pleasure, he said, is when he hands them back.

"His sentiment was a little differently expressed, perhaps by the man who drives the milk wagon on the street where I live. A few days after the notice came out in the press that I would voluntarily retire from the Congress, he was passing one day and he said:

"'Good morning, Judge.' I said, 'Good morning, Bill.' He said, 'I see you are getting out of Congress.' I said, 'Yes; that is right. I have got my pants and now, in the parlance of the day, I think maybe I will be liquidated or deactivated, or whatever you want to call it.'

"He said, 'Judge, I always did say you were a smart man.' I said, 'I thank you; that is very nice of you; I appreciate that very much.'

"He said: 'Yes; you are a smart man. You are getting out before they get you.'"

WHEN THE LAUGHTER—Mr. Woodrum's—had subsided, the speaker continued:

"I do not know whether you ever heard the story of that sheriff out in one of our Virginia counties who run for public office.

"We have in Virginia, as most states have, a law which requires you to report your campaign expenditures. After the election was over, this sheriff got the usual forms and filled out the financial side of the questionnaire as to how much had been expended for him so far as he was aware.

"But he did not feel that that told the entire story. So he turned over on the back and he thought he would write in the rest of the story.

"He wrote down:

"'I traveled 1200 miles; I shook hands with 1298 people, I plowed ■ acres; I joined seven lodges; I was baptized three times, once by immersion; I kissed 7½ babies; I made love to 16 old maids; I was bitten by three dogs, and I was defeated by 65 votes.'"

Boston After Dark

EXCLUSIVE: No more persuasion than a personal call by telephone from Washington to Clinton would be necessary to assure U. S. Sen. David I. Walsh's presence on the platform of Symphony Hall when Cong. James M. Curley takes office Monday as Mayor of Boston . . . Perhaps even the telephone call would be a surplus gesture, as there is an even chance that the distinguished senior Senator from Massachusetts may respond, quite surprisingly, to the routine invitation (card of admission enclosed) now in the mail. ★ ★ ★

IF SEN. WALSH SHOULD DECIDE to honor the incoming Mayor's inaugural with his presence, his fellow-townsman, protege and potential Democratic candidate in 1948 for Governor, Cong. Philip J. Philbin, will accompany him . . . Of course, a certain measure of protocol attends so imposing an occasion as the inauguration of a Mayor of Boston . . . Seating arrangements probably have been made without entertaining the notion that Sen. Walsh would be able to attend . . . Preferred positions on the dais, therefore, would have been allotted Boston dignitaries. ★ ★ ★

NOT TOO MUCH SHUFFLING of the chairs should be needed, however, to make a place of honor for the Commonwealth's most potent Democrat, the Senator from Clinton . . The Senator's presence at Symphony Hall would prove an unexpectedly pleasant tribute to the Mayor-elect, and would infer—beyond any question—that a reproachment between the Senator and Mr. Curley, after years of coolness, had been effected. ★ ★ ★

AT ANY RATE, we are able to report authentically that Sen. Walsh is ready to make an early morning journey from his home in Clinton to honor his colleague in the Congress when he, Mr. Curley, returns to the old stand at City, via Symphony, Hall . . . As to the proctocol, the formalities, the program, the mutuality of the willingness, your deponent knoweth not enough to present the prediction that Mr. Walsh will be present at the inaugural as a positive one . . . But Democrats can hope . . . It would be nice for the Massachusetts Democratic Party to behold these two able citizens as they—for the first time in years—exchange sincere good wishes. ★ ★ ★

HERE IS SOME FEED-BOX information on appointments to be made by Mayor Curley . . . Gen. William I. Rose, who left his state job as purchasing agent for state institutions to fight in the Pacific, has been offered the purchasing agent's post for the City of Boston . . . Without being coy about it, the Worcester-born general who served on the Governor's staff when Mr. Curley ruled from the State House does not affirm the widespread report that he has accepted the offer . . . Nor does he deny it . . . The situation seems to be that Gen. Rose will be the city's new purchasing agent if the Mayor really wants him to accept the job. ★ ★ ★

CHARLES E. MANNION, one-time chauffeur for Mr. Curley, is to be the new street commissioner . . . Henry Brennan, as predicted here the day after the election, is to be the new city treasurer. (He resigned Saturday from the RFC) . . . The public works commissioner-to-be is a non-resident of Boston who for the time being must remain unidentified by this column. (He will be a resident shortly, no doubt.) ★ ★ ★

DANIEL DONOVAN of Charlestown will be in the Mayor's official family, possibly as city collector . . . (But don't bet on it yet) . . . Frank Fedonti, a veteran in Curley service, will be in the fold again . . . Former Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty will return to Boston Feb. 1 after vacationing in Palm Beach as the house guest of former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy . . . The story goes that "Joe T.," a Curley friend and favorite through various administrations, is to succeed the redoubtable William "Bill" Long as Park Commissioner . . . To this corner, this yarn lacks conviction, but considering the source, the report must be respected. ★ ★ ★

A PLACE AWAITS former Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols in the Curley cabinet, and the probability is that he will be transit commissioner . . . As a matter of fact, several of the important city appointments have not been decided . . . The customary pulling, tugging and hauling by interested candidates and their sponsors is going on . . . One curious story is that Lewis Croteau, executive secretary of the Watch and Ward Society, has told friends that Mr. Curley offered him the city censor's job . . . We do not doubt the word of Mr. Croteau, who is not known personally to this department, but the notion of the Mayor-elect invading the unfamiliar precincts of the Watch and Ward Society in search of a candidate for a key job in his office sounds like something out of Aesop . . . (Mr. Croteau, we might add, says that he declined the offer with thanks).

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

Copyright, 1946, King Features Synd., Inc.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3—We have entered the New Year but Broadway and Broadwayites will long remember the momentous old year. You couldn't very well call it a good year, but it brought Peace, and that, at the time, seemed like everything. And it certainly was an unparalleled year, if only by virtue of the little golf-ball size pill known to the vaudeville comics and others as the atomic bomb, which made some of us think thoughts beyond our size for the very first time. Yes, give it that. It was unparalleled, even though many of its events hugged a pattern as familiar as the one on grandma's patchwork quilt.

Shirley Temple

Do you remember?

American boys stopped dying the hard way, but civilians continued to weep over the tire shortage . . . Shirley Temple got her first screen kiss and followed through by becoming prettiest bride of the year. ★ ★ ★

A BOMBER crashed into the Empire State Building, and shocked New Yorkers couldn't believe their eyes. . Fiorello La Guardia signed a contract to sell magazine subscriptions and sundries over the air. . Fred Allen returned. . Harry Hopkins removed his cloak as Presidential adviser and moved over to the women's coat industry . . .England's voters voted fins to Winnie, and Happy Chandler sought a new nickname after his appointment as baseball czar.

Etherized Astringent Does the Trick

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

HOLD THAT LINE . . . the line of the face, we mean! Not all of us can wear mink or sable . . . but at least, we can do as the mink-and-sable gals do . . . watch the facial contours and use a product which they pay good money for as part of a routine at an upstate New York milk farm.

Those glamor gals . . . as you undoubtedly know . . . would rather go into seclusion than brave public scrutiny and menace their social prestige with a couple of chins, flabby jowls or one extra pound of unwanted flesh. Hence their periodic visits to this ritzy milk farm . . . where a continental masseuse rolls it off like water off the duck's back . . . to them an easier way than giving up food and drink . . . money being no object.

And to protect the face from looking like a dried up prune . . . they employ faithful and daily application of an etherized astringent. It so happens that the cosmetic house which supplies this milk farm with this unusual etherized astringent has a local outlet. So what's to stop us Boston gals from firming and strengthening our facial muscles for that chiseled classicism of face we so devotedly yearn for? And it won't really hurt your pocketbook.

If your facial muscles need no tightening or strengthening . . . and only the very young are in this class, believe me . . . but if your complexion gushes oil like a geyser . . . this etherized astringent can double in brass in remedying this situation as well. Oily skins develop flabbiness since constant seeping of oil through the tissues relaxes the muscles.

Any dermatologist will tell you that ether has a slightly drying, tightening property with magnetic influence to suck up superficial oily waste matter from the complexion. In time . . . when the etherized astringent has tightened the skin . . . contracted the pores to some degree of normalcy so that they cannot serve as funnels of exit for the spendthrift natural oil . . . the skin tissue becomes a normal coverage for the features.

That's why this product is such a honey for a relaxed skin . . . be it oily or flabby. And it also contains an almond compound to give the astringent a softening property as well. If your complexion needs firming or refining . . . here is a vital antidote.

For the name of this unusual etherized astringent, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped ,self-addressed envelope.

HEAVE HO m'lassie. Columbia's lovely Leslie Brooks takes time out from picture making to come swinging onto the sand and into the camera's eye on a stout hawser to pose for some curvaceous pinup art. We ask you to swing out on the line of beauty and hold the line of the face . . . that important age-line of the jaw and chin . . . with an unusual etherized astringent.

CLEVER fabric manipulation distinguishes this charming frock for gay holiday parties which NBC chanteuse Hildegarde fancies and wears so well. Wide yoke . . . to which are shirred the medieval-looking sleeves . . . shoulder buttons and a gold braid belt are the simple but stunning details. The feather hat and gloves are pink . . . the dress, of gray velvet . . . a charming and feminine color combination . . .R. M.

Doubt Over Bridal Gift

IF A PERSON is invited to the bridal shower and to the church ceremony, but not to the dinner after the wedding, does she buy one gift or two?

If the girl goes to the shower, she would of course bring a gift. But what she does about giving the bride-to-be a wedding gift depends entirely on her inclination and preference. If she is invited to a bridal shower, the usual assumption is that she is a friend of the prospectitve bride, and, as a friend, she generally wishes to show her friendship and good wishes by giving a wedding present.

If she thinks she should have been invited to the dinner to be given after the wedding—if perhaps it was a large dinner to which relatives and many friends were invited—this viewpoint may, if she wishes it to, dim her enthusiasm about sending a wedding present. So still the only possible advice remains: that she send a wedding present if she wishes.

Barbecued Spareribs Tasty

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

ALMOST ALL HEARTY EATERS get a craving for "barbecued ribs" every once in a while. But, more often than not, they go to one of their favorite restaurants to get them. Many an otherwise ordinary eating place has made a reputation and gained a lot of business by specializing in this popular favorite.

Surely, there is no reason why this delectable dish, adopted from the colorful West, cannot be enjoyed at any home.

Why not try serving these some Saturday night, when the gang has been out cavorting in the wind and comes home ravenously hungry?

MENU

Barbecued Spareribs
Baked Potatoes, Hotel Style
Buttered Cauliflower
Assorted Relishes
Hard Rolls Butter or Margarine
Gingerbread with Apple Sauce
Coffee

Because spareribs contain a good deal of bone, it's a good idea to allow about ¾ of a pound for each person when you buy them. You may order them by the "strip" or "sheet," which varies approximately from 1½ to 3 pounds; or you can order them by the pound. For convenience in cooking and serving, you may want to have your market man cut them into pieces suitable for individual servings.

BARBECUED SPARERIBS

BARBECUED SPARERIBS

3 lbs. spareribs, cut in servings
1 medium onion
2 tbsp. butter, margarine, or bacon drippings
2 tbsp. vinegar
2 tbsp. brown sugar
1 small bottle or 1 cup catsup
3 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tbsp. prepared mustard
1 cup water
½ cup chopped celery (optional)
Salt and red pepper
¼ cup lemon juice

Brown spareribs on all sides in the cooking pan. Or brown under the broiler as the oven is heating. Brown onion in fat, add remaining ingredients and cook slowly until flavors are blended, about 15 minutes. Pour sauce over browned spareribs. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 1½ to 2 hours or until done.

OTHER BABECUED TREATS

This barbecue sauce may be made up ahead of time, in which case you would simmer the ingredients together for about 30 minutes. As a matter of fact, it is an excellent item to have on hand. It will keep indefinitely in the refrigerator, and you can use it in making a variety of zesty, flavorful meat dishes.

Lamb riblets (which are cut from the breast of lamb) are delicious prepared with barbecue sauce, as are short ribs of beef. Try serving the sauce, piping hot, on hamburgers, baked hash, or frankfurters. To make canned luncheon meat into a dish that is out of the ordinary, heat the loaf (sliced or not) in a generous amount of barbecue sauce.

GINGERBREAD

2 cups sifted flour
1 tsp. baking soda
¼ tsp. salt
1½ tsp. ginger
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
2 eggs, beaten
½ cup molasses
1 cup sour milk or buttermilk
½ cup shortening, melted

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine eggs, molasses, sour milk and shortening; gradually add to flour-sugar mixture, beating thoroughly. Turn into greased (9-inch) square pan and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 40 to 50 minutes. Makes 9 3-inch squares.

Teach Your Child Not to Interrupt

Are you guilty of the maddening discourtesy of interrupting the person speaking? If you are, or even if you think perhaps you may be and haven't taken enough notice that this disagreeable habit has grown on you (and it can grow, very quickly and subtly!), check up on yourself, and strangle the habit at once.

Then, if you are a parent, teach your child that he must not, and that he simply must not interrupt. Your friends and relatives will welcome this relief—and your family most of all!

Your Style Plan for Spring

By BETTINA BEDWELL

IT ISN'T a moment too early to chart your fashion course for 1946. To have smooth sailing when you pick out your clothes you need to do some fore-thinking.

About the first thing to do is to check your wardrobe and see what clothes you have on hand that you can wear and feel right in during the coming spring. Look them over and get them cleaned, small repairs made, and, if necessary, add any detail or accessory that will give you the feeling that you are wearing something fresh and charming.

After you have done this you can begin to think about what you will buy. If you have a good suit that is in good style—and there is a lot of leeway in suit fashions—you plan your waists to go with it. A sparkling printed crepe blouse will do wonders for an old suit, and if you want to spend the money, you can have printed gloves to match.

Gloria Brown Feted

By BETTY ALDEN

GLORIA BROWN one of this season's popular debs, is making her formal debut this afternoon at a tea given by her mother, Mrs. Philip Klein Brown of Waban, at the Women's Republican Club. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. Wilbur S. Grant, former president of the club.

Gloria gets her skates on in a flash at The Country Club rink and has her own private stag line at dances, for she has two very attentive beaux, roommates at ROTC, who take her to all the parties in a congenial threesome. Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (INS)—The clothing shortage has extended to the ranks of the 32 new cardinals named by Pope Pius XII.

"Every housewife can help prevent soap shortages by turning in used fats!"

says CLINTON P. ANDERSON
Secretary of Agriculture

"IT is just as important now as when fats and oils were rationed to save and turn in every bit of used kitchen fat. Used fats continue to be one of our most important sources of supply for the manufacture of soap and for other industrial uses. It may be many months before we can obtain adequate supplies of imported fats and oils for these uses. In the meantime, every housewife can help prevent soap shortages by turning in her used kitchen fats, and dealers can help by continuing collections."

SORRY, MRS. BROWN, MY SUPPLY'S SO LOW, I CAN GIVE ONLY ONE BAR OF SOAP TO A CUSTOMER
WITH TWO CHILDREN TO WASH FOR... IT'S CERTAINLY TOUGH GOING WHEN WILL WE GET MORE?

OUR COUNTRY'S supply of industrial fats is still far below minimum requirements needed to make soaps and other peacetime goods. Any letup in the saving of used fats by you American housewives will lower this supply... and may mean less soap. Here's what you can do!

WHOA THERE, SISTER SAVING FAT SCRAPS IS JUST AS IMPORTANT NOW AS DURING THE WAR. FATS ARE NEEDED TO MAKE SOAPS!

FOOD FATS are ration-free, true! But the fats needed to make soaps are still scarce. Every drop you save in your kitchen goes into the supply ...helps bring back more soap to your dealer's shelves sooner. So keep on your fat-salvage job—help yourself get more soaps. And remember, you get 4c a pound when you turn in used fat to your butcher.

Mother of 6 Works As Red Cross Aide

Mother of six children, Mrs. Harry H. Bradbury of Wyoming st., Roxbury, was at work today as a Red Cross nurse's aide, maintaining her usual schedule of giving two days each week to hospital work.

Mrs. Bradbury, a Red Cross volunteer for the past two years, spends every Wednesday at the New England Hospital for Women and Children and every Thursday at Boston City Hospital.

Three of her children are in the Armed Forces.

"I wouldn't give up this work for the best luncheons or teas in the world," she said. "I feel as though I am doing something worth while. And I know other women would feel the same way if they could only see the work to be done in the various hospitals and see in how many ways they can relieve overburdened nurses."

The work of Mrs. Bradbury and all other nurse's aides was praised by Miss Josephine A. Mulville, R. N., director of the New England Hospital.

"The patients are so grateful. During the war the volunteers performed many invaluable tasks. Without them we would have had to close many services of the hospital.

"We still need them in great numbers. Along with the work they do they are great morale builders not only for the patients but also for the personnel of the hospital. I feel that there will always be a place in hospitals for Red Cross volunteers," she said.

HASTINGS, Neb., Jan. 3 (AP)—All during the war a customer at one Hastings meat market joshed his butcher by calling out loudly, "Ten pounds of bacon, please."

The other day, after the customary request, the butcher produced a 10-pound slab of bacon, and the customer had to talk his way out of a $4 purchase.

Why Americans Are Most Unpopular of All People

By AUSTEN LAKE

VICE-ADM. WILSON BROWN (USN Ret.) hauls off and busts the naked truth right on the lug. He says, "In spite of all America has suffered in the cause of freedom this country has made more enemies than friends during the last four years. We are bitterly hated by our recognized enemies. We are envied and reviled by many we sought to help."

Austen Lake

Cast those words in imperishable bronze. For there is scarcely a nation, unless it is the Chinese which feels a tingle or tremor of obligation, or gratitude for the billions in material, the torrents of blood and vast sums of money we poured into their countries.

That's chiefly our fault! I'll try to tell you why!

The British Pour It On

THE COMMON FOLK OF FOREIGN countries never heard about our aid. They were not and are not told. Their governments, jealous of self-credit, studiously refrain from revealing the facts. Foreign newspapers, where they exist, are prejudiced or under rigid control. Our government doesn't bother.

Result is a blank abysmal ignorance among foreign peoples where the impression was allowed to grow that whatever stuffs, money or material they got were self-paid for, or that the U. S. gave nothing that it didn't get back double. Not one foreign citizen in 100,000, and that estimate is low, ever heard that we shipped $12,653,641,000 in lend-lease between March 11, 1941, and Aug. 7, 1945. Nor does he hear anything about American participation in UNRRA. And for that matter neither do most Americans.

Meanwhile since 1942 the British Information Service, with headquarters in Rockefeller Center, has deluged the U. S. press with UK war-effort figures and postwar facts. No day passes that the newspapers of this nation don't receive from one to four large manila envelopes stuffed with self-laudatory details of British aid and accomplishments!

Understand, please! I do not criticize the British for blowing their own bugle. But I do blame our own government for not doing the same thing!

I have never received an iota of information on lend-lease or international aid from Washington. What small dribs and drabs of information on this subject there is comes from the Congressional Record. Nor did I ever observe a smidgeon of U. S. information intended for foreign education on that subject. We just keep our good deeds mum! We didn't inform our Allied peoples and we don't inform our own!

Now comes a BIS-published slick-paper job sized like Reader's Digest magazine and entitled "England." It's loaded with photos and data on UK collaboration throughout the world. And a darn nice job too! Before me as I write I have a library of BIS pamphlets, brochures, fliers, catalogs—all publicity prodders for British good works. They're able and comprehensive—grand propaganda.

I search them in vain for some mention of U. S. lend-lease, but find gobs and oodles of UK reverse, like this: "Resident people of Australia have been going shy of many foods to assign 29,600,000 pounds of meat, 20,000,000 pounds of potatoes, 1,800,000 dozens of eggs, 5,161,000,000 quarts of milk to American troops. Australia, of course, neither asks nor expects payment."

That item was dated way back in December of '42 and is typical of masses of such stuff. This paper printed it and the editorial impact was profound.

But I cannot recall ever having read any similar small audit of U. S war aid in any foreign paper during my wide travels in wartime Europe. Nor have I seen any such pro-U. S. facts printed in the overseas exchange journals since war ended. The foreign press has neither space nor inclination to give America credit. The De Gaulle-dominated press of France excludes any reference to our many benefactions. Russia's state-subsidized journals don't publish a word about it. The Italian press isn't interested. Neither are the British!

It's Our Fault, Too

THUS, QUITE NATURALLY, foreign peoples see only their own scarcities and know nothing of our aid. So they grumble and gripe about the rich, selfish Americans who thrived on war and made enormous profits at the expense of global misery. I've heard 'em in every language!

They have not been told the true facts. Thus when I last left France, few Frenchmen realized that the U. S., among many other matters, had equipped some eight French divisions with every item from K-rations to Sherman tanks. When I told some of them they said "Incroyable" — "Unbelievable." And the average Englishman knows little more. All they read is bitter criticism of the "dollar hungry" Yankees who "bleed them" with interest charges on a $4,100,000,000 loan, never being told that to float such a large sum the U. S. must pay its own tax-burdened people a larger rate of interest than we are charging Britain. The English press and politicians carefully conceal the American side of the problem.

The Italians, Belgians, Luxembourgians, Russians all believe that the Croesus Americans have private gold mines in each backyard from which they dig their supply of weath. Sometimes during the war we'd stumble on types who had prejudice tattooed indelibly on their minds—like that belligerent pair of Australian correspondents attached to the U. S. Third Army. We had it hot and heavy in the press mess one night when the Aussies harangued us on the premise that, (1) America had no world philanthropy in its heart, just commercial avarice, (2) we hadn't sent our troops and materials abroad through any humanitarian motives, just to secure our trade outlets, (3) MacArthur was only concerned with self-aggrandizement, et cetera.

Nor was this an isolated incident. To foreign press attaches to our armies most U. S. motives were suspect. They didn't contribute much to international amity in their writings. In fact they created considerable flaming resentment. But they never failed to be prompt at mess meals or to grab the best billets or to be first in line for the weekly cigaret and candy ration—as any U. S. correspondent will attest.

Yawkey to Keep Hose; Eager to See Own Stars

Eddie Collins, general manager of the Red Sox, says the Red Sox will not be sold to Bing Crosby or to anyone else. "Tom Yawkey has not any intention of selling the Red Sox to Bing Crosby or to any other group," said Collins today. "Yawkey, like myself, is eager to see how our club will tick when we get Ted Williams, Johnny Pesky, Dom DiMaggio and our other stars in action.

"I do not know, of course, what Crosby may have talked about with Bill Danforth, Francis Ouimet or other people, but at no time has Bing ever made any offer for the Red Sox to Tom Yawkey or to myself. If he did, the answer would be 'no.'

'I once met Bing on the Coast and I like him. I also like Bing's latest picture, 'The Bells of St. Mary's.' Maybe the Sox purchase story was the brainchild of a moving picture agent. It was all right with Yawkey and myself if the story did Bing's picture any good."

Crosby recently denied reports he intended to sell his interest in Del Mar, California race track, so that he would be eligible to bid for a major league ball club.

Bing was once banned by Judge Landis from trying to buy the Braves on account of his race track interests. Baseball is still opposed to people associated with racing owning a franchise in organized ball.

Yawkey has invested more than $4,000,000 in the Red Sox. Once when a sports writer criticized Yawkey for putting this much money into baseball, he declared it was not the business of anyone what he did with his own money.

"I do not go in for yachts or other flossy luxuries," said Yawkey. "I like baseball and if I wish to spend $4,000,000 on my ball club that is my business."

Yawkey is reputed to be worth $50,000,000. He has vast wealth in mining and lumber interests.

You may take it as official Tom has not any intention of leaving the Boston baseball picture.

Griff Boosted for Hall of Fame Spot

By HERB FINNEGAN

Two hundred and two members of the Baseball Writers' Ass'n have been asked to vote for five of the 21 "greats" still left in the running for 1946 niches in baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown. Under the system it could happen that none of the 21 nominees would get the necessary 75 per cent of the votes to gain admission to the "Hall."

Some of the writers are on vacation, which is customary at this season of the year. Others may neglect to cast their vote. Or the votes may be widely scattered as in 1942 and 1945. Only Rogers Hornsby was elected in '42 and not one player in 1945.

That hardly seems fair when the field includes such acknowledged super-stars as Chief Bender, Mordecai Brown, Clark Griffith, Lefty Grove, Carl Hubbell, Herb Pennock, Joe McGinnity, Rube Waddell, Ed Walsh; catchers Mickey Cochrane and Bill Dickey; infielders Frank Baker, Frank Chance, Johnny Evers, Frank Frisch, Charlie Gehringer, Miller Huggins, Rabbit Maranville, Joe Tinker and Pie Traynor.

Old Griff deserves to be elected 1, because he and Hughy Duffy were instrumental in organizing the American League, rounding up sufficient playing talent to open in 1901; 2, because Griff was good enough to lead the American League pitchers in 1901 (won 24, lost 7), and 3, for being persuasive enough to keep Walter Johnson from hopping to the Federal League in 1915 when such a move by the game's greatest pitcher might have been followed by wholesale jumping of players with dire results to the league.

This is the year '46. Griff's been in the league every year since its infancy as player, manager and owner. He kept baseball going through two wars. Such devotion to duty deserves reward. He will be one of baseball's immortals, even though he may never be enshrined at Cooperstown. Now nearing 80 and still active, it would be a fine gesture to elect him. He won't be around forever.

Johnny Evers was a member of the "Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance" infield triumvirate famous in song and story. He it was who detected the "Merkle" boner in 1908 which forced the Giants to play off the game and cost them the pennant, putting Evers' Cubs on top instead. He it was, too, who spearheaded the Braves' drive to the 1914 pennant, making a great stortstop of Maranville in the process.

Waddell deserves a spot if only for the reams of publicity he got for the league which needed publicity at the time. And the great southpaw was good enough to lead the league's pitchers in 1905 with a 27-10 record and lead in strikeouts six years running. Grove five times led the league's pitching in won-lost, in 1931 establishing a 31-4 record with the A's that still holds.

And how about Smoky Joe Wood, whose 34-5 record in 1912 helped bring the Red Sox a pennant and held up until Grove came along? And Carl Hubbell whose strikeout and earned run averages were compiled in the years when the ball was at its liveliest? And Big Ed Walsh who won 40 games for the White Sox in 1908? Twenty-game winners are rated some pumpkins today.

It is to be noted that there isn't an outfielder among the 21 nominees. Yet Eddie Collins ranks Al Simmons right behind Cobb, Speaker and Ruth, and Harry Heilmann, last .400 hitter before Ted Williams, is described by former team-mates as the "greatest right-handed batter that ever lived."

JOE'S BACK—Joe DiMaggio, in unusual angle shot, poises big medicine ball in New York gym workout as he starts grind to get back in peak condition for Yankees.

MacPhail Found Disorderly, Fined $50 for Phone Row

BULLETIN

BEL AIR, Md., Jan. 3 (AP)— Larry MacPhail was found guilty on one chrge of disorderly conduct and innocent on two two charges of assault in Hartford County Circuit Court today. MacPhail was fined $50 and costs.

State's Atty. McNabb, in his opening statement to Judge Coburn who is hearing the case without a jury, said MacPhail's inability to place a long-distance telephone call to Newark, N. J., Oct. 5 precipitated the disturbance.

A nation-wide four-hour stoppage of telephone employes occurred Oct. 5 and only emergency, long-distance calls were accepted.

The state's attorney said MacPhail put in one call from his farm showpplace near Bel Air to Detroit, claiming it was of an emergency nature, and then tried to get through to Newark. The call was refused, he said, and after MacPhail had spoken to Mrs. Anna Towner, chief operator at Bel Air, and to Thomas Dwyer, manager of the telephone office, he came to the exchange to discuss the matter. MacPhail used "profuse profanity," McNabb said, pushed Mrs. Towner onto a table and slapped Dwyer in the face.

The telephone operators told MacPhail, the attorney continued, that they had listened to the Detroit call and that it was not of an emergency nature as he had said so they would handle no more calls for him.

The strongest language MacPhail recalled using at the exchange, MacPhail's attorney, Ernest Volkart said, was telling Mrs. Towner, "you may be on strike but you can still tell the truth."

In any event, the lawyer said, MacPhail had sent a letter of apology to the telephone employes.

Bruins Hit Peak of Form; Hockey Fans Are Rabid

By JACK CONWAY

ART ROSS HAS the Bruins at the peak of their form as they prepare to try to overtake Montreal and Chicago in the National Hockey League. When Schmidt, Dumart, Bauer, Reardon and other servicemen returned to the line-up before the opening game of the season with the Blackhawks, Ross told this writer it would not be until the holidays that his players would be at their best.

Ross recognized the fact that returning service players would require at least two months to get into top physical condition and to perfect their timing. After watching the Bruins defeat the Detroit Red Wings and rush into third place, I believe that Ross' timing of his club was as perfect as the timing of his golf shots at the Marshfield Country Club during the summer months.

Art Ross

The Bruins are today playing hard, dashing hockey. They are displaying great power as well as brilliance in skating and in passing the puck.

Players who earlier in the season lacked precision in their work are today roaring down the ice, passing perfectly and shooting goals with deadly accuracy.

Hockey is the first major sport to get back on a prewar basis, and it is easy to understand how it has regained all of its former popularity. After watching makeshift hockey, baseball and football during the war, one gets a real lift out of seeing two sturdy hockey outfits like the Bruins and Red Wings in action.

Free-for-All Battles

THE FACT there were two fights during the recent clash between the Bruins and Detroit was another indication that everything is once more normal in hockey. It is natural that in a game that is so fast the tempers of the players would at times reach the boiling point.

The jams between Jack Stewart, Detroit defense man, and first Schmidt and then Reardon add excitement and color to the game. I still contend, however, that hockey players are very amateurish in the delivery of punches. Any longshoreman would be able to give Stewart, Schmidt and Reardon lessons in how to hit the opposition flush on the jaw rather than having well intentioned punches land on the shoulder or go circling around the neck.

Harry Kelley might be persuaded to take a defense man like Pat Egan into his gym and instruct him in the cauliflower art. Pat could then boldly skate in the direction of Stewart and chill him with a single well-directed blow. Art Ross might not like such a procedure, for under present conditions Stewart can offer two fights in one night, and still leave the ice very much intact and ready for the next game.

Fans Follow Form

IF THOROUGHBRED race horses ran as true to form as does the noble breed of hockey fans, handicappers like Dave Wilson, Dave Komie and Bill McAuley would never have a losing day.

Hockey enthusiasts arrive at the Garden in a high state of expectancy. They are hoping for terrific action, a victory for the home club, and as many jams as possible. They remind me of those persons who like to see auto races on half-mile dirt tracks. The thought there may be a bad accident is always in the mind of the auto race follower. True, he does not wish any driver to get killed or injured, but if fate wills that such a happening take place he wishes to be there as the ambulance comes out of the track.

Hockey fans always warm up by booing the officials. They later boo every ruling against the local club, and at times cast whatever they happen to have in their hands in the direction of the officials and rival players. Referee Clancy was hit on the face by a box of cough drops tossed by a gallery god when he inflicted a heavier penalty against Reardon than he did against Stewart.

There was a time when Charles F. Adams considered placing chicken netting in front of the gallery section to prevent such happenings, but action was deferred when the gallery gods set up their own police system and restricted their energies to presenting awards to players.

Frank Sinatra might be jealous if he were to watch the bobby-soxers and their elders line up in the lobby of the Garden to catch a passing glimpse of the Bruins and visiting players as they move to their dressing rooms and back to the ice. It is necessary to have a police detail to prevent bobby soxers from getting in the path of the players and possibly placing loving caresses on their sweaty brows.

This glamor and excitement all tends to jam the Garden to capacity each week when the Bruins play, and as long as this continues I do not believe Art Ross, Lt. Com. Weston W. Adams or Walter Brown will wish to make any changes in the hockey setup.

Ormsby Yearns to Return to Baseball

CHICAGO, Jan. 3 (AP)—Emmet "Red" Ormsby, who retired four years ago after serving 19 years as an American League umpire, yearns to return to baseball—but not as an umpire.

Baseball is the only thing that will interest him, Ormsby said today, in disclosing he is seeking to serve as a scout or in the business office of a major or minor league club. He says he doesn't want to umpire.

Skiers Take More Spills Riding Tow

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Some skiers take more spills going up a grade than downhill! At least, that's the impression we received while skiing at the Commonwealth Country Club this week, watching that rope tow throw more riders than jockeys in a steeplechase. But this hoist is an excellent one, slow and safe; the fault is with the skiers.

Here are a few hints on riding a tow, gleaned from years of experience with the contraptions: When grasping the rope at the start, don't grab it like a surf-casting rod; let it slide through your hands for a second or two—and then it won't yank you on your ear! . . . Wear heavy mittens for protection against friction . . . Relax—but be alert on the way to the summit. Watch out for ruts and keep your skis pointed forward in the right tracks.

And remember not to congregate at the jumping-off place with your pals; give the next rider a chance to get off without causing a veritable "log jam" of hickories . . . If you fall from the tow, roll to one side immediately, or a tangle of legs, arms, and skis will ensue!

50,000 TOW RIDES

Russ Hale, genial operator of the Commonwealth tow, told us that the month of December had been most exceptional at this popular schuss spot. "We were able to run on 11 days, thanks to the unusual amount of snow," he stated. "About 5000 skiers used our slopes at these times" . . . Since the average skier manages to obtain 10 or 12 runs in an afternoon, this means that there were actually around 50,000 rides on the conveyance in December! And the real season has just begun!

Next winter, Russ hopes to have two big tows rolling here, plus a small one for children, thus utilizing all of the vast expanses available. The floodlights flicker every night on flashing steel edges.

SKI SCRIBBLINGS: At Franconia, N. H., Bernard Herbert, who served in the Mountain Troops, is now director of sports for the Mittersill Club, and the 1200-foot tow is roaring on the huge slope . . . A 2000-foot Alpine lift is expected to be completed at the end of this month. The club itself will not be ready until next spring, although the cafeteria and warmingroom are open for the public this winter . . . Bernard says that movie star, Gene Tierney, may visit this set-up soon, and will present a trophy for a ski race to be held on the slope . . . His brother, Bertram, well known racer and protege of Oscar Cyr, is still in the Air Force.

Cesario and Zollo Face Test

Two of the most consistent winners in New England rings will be on the Callahan A. C. card when the lid pops off the 1946 boxing season at Mechanics Building on Monday night.

Bobby Zollo of Providence, winner of 21 bout in a row, will clash with Johnny Charles, while Johnny Cesario of the North End, who has triumphed in 38 straight bouts, will have Eddie Pierce of Vancouver, B. C., as an opponent. Zollo and Cesario will both have to show at their best to keep on the victory trail.

Al Evans of Montreal, Canadian middleweight champion, will toss blows at Jackie Caparell of Roxbury.

Patsy Zacane of New York has been named as an opponent for Garvey (Lefty) Young, Marine welterweight, for a ten-round bout at a Sharkey A. A. show at the Arena on Jan. 11. Another ten-rounder will see Vinnie Vazzo of Revere in action against Jimmy Davis of New York.

Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh, still a capable fighting man despite his years in the ring, will give Al Priest the most severe test of his career when they clash in a ten-round bout at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden on Jan. 15. Zivic is a rugged, two-fisted warrior

Another Terrific Slate Faces Pics

Two games in two days this week-end will launch the Boston Olympics on another torrid nine days of hockey, during which they will play no less than six games.

First of all the Olympics start in with Philadelphia Falcons this week-end at the Arena on St. Botolph st., and then on Sunday they hop over to New York to meet New York Rovers in Madison Square Garden.

Following those two contests, the Pics go to Washington for a game with the Lions on Tuesday, and then on Wednesday they back-track to Baltimore for a face-off with the Clippers. On Friday night of next week the Pics will be at home for the first of two games, first against Rovers Friday night and then against Baltimore Sunday evening. With Ice-Capades having left town by then, the scene of the Olympics' hockey games will shift back to Boston Garden.

Cooper entered the Navy shortly after the start of the 1945 season. He will be 31 years old next Tuesday.
